in Neighbourhoods

Prof. Dr. Uwe Schneidewind
Mayor of Wuppertal
and Pascal Biesenbach

Member of the Executive Board of „Aufbruch am Arrenberg e. V.“

Cities are committing to climate neutrality - that's the theory. But how does this happen in practice? What are the paths and possibilities to net-zero emissions? Prof. Dr. Uwe Schneidewind and Pascal Biesenbach present what Wuppertal's climate protection concept envisages and go into detail using the example of the climate quarter "Wuppertal-Arrenberg". They report from the field on the role of urban spaces in the energy transition and what can and must be done today to achieve the 2050 climate goals.
